MONDAY MORNING, JULY [illegible]

The Pacific Railroad.

The great events which are continually occurring in our country have drawn attention from the fact that the present Congress has passed a bill which has been signed by the President authorizing companies to construct a railroad from the Missouri river to Sacramento and San Francisco, with a branch from Sacramento to or near Portland in Oregon. This measure, long persistently opposed by Southern members in Congress, has, at the very first regular session of Congress under the present Administration, become a law. [illegible] Pacific [illegible], East and West, ha[illegible] promptly responded to in this case. The present Administration were pledged to this measure without a mental reservation, and it has redeemed its pledge.

We are informed by the best authority that the bill is just such a one as the friends of the railroad desired—just such a bill as will secure the completion of the great work. It provides for the formation of a company or companies—gives to them [illegible] and an area of public land twenty [illegible] hundred miles long by six miles wide. Different portions of the road are to be commenced simultaneously, or as nearly so as [illegible], and the law requires the [illegible] with all the quickness [illegible]. [illegible] gentlemen who have examined the law say that it is a most perfect one, securing the just rights of all concerned, the stockholders in the companies, the Government and the people.

The citizens of the Pacific coast may now be satisfied that the Pacific Railroad will be commenced in good earnest, and will be completed with all possible expedition. Ten years are spoken of as the utmost length of time which will be required to complete it. We suppose that those portions of the route, where the work can rapidly be done, will be first completed, and, temporary, the difficult portions will be connected by stages until the whole work is completed. There are thousands of those who read this article, who, we believe, will pass over the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad. Speed the time.

The branch from Sacramento to Oregon will be, we apprehend, the last of the work to be done. This will be accelerated by the increase of our population, the improvement of the country, and the development of our great agricultural and mineral riches, the increase of our manufactures, and the corresponding increase of our commerce. "God helps those who help themselves." All outward circumstances combine to help a people who help themselves. Population and capital will come here, and build our portion of the road, when it is certain that the work will yield profit. Capitalists will not throw away money merely to gratify us.

We say these things, because the provisions for making the branch road are not as ample as those for completing the grand trunk. The great national object is to open a highway, nearly equal in value to a navigable river, from the Atlantic to the Pacific States. The road from the Missouri river to San Francisco secures that object. Obviously to the nation the branch to Portland is a less object. We would, however, make it a great object. We would be ready to crowd its cars with the productions of this valley [illegible] and down the Willamette, it would soon pay—and in a few years, by the time it will be completed, it must become the highway for a vast amount of travel and business for Oregon and Washington.

The especial provision in relation to the branch of the Atlantic and Pacific road reads thus:

[illegible] shall file their acceptance of the conditions of this act in the Department of the Interior within six months after the passage of this act: Provided, That any company [illegible] organized by the laws of the State of Oregon and California for the purpose [illegible] authorized to construct [illegible] respective States [illegible] a railroad and telegraph line [illegible] and telegraph [illegible] point at or near [illegible] thence [illegible] Portland in Oregon [illegible] practicable [illegible] and terms as are [illegible] construction of said Central Pacific railroad and telegraph: Provided, That no more than eight thousand dollars [illegible] shall be granted for the construction of said branch.

We doubt not that when the branch route shall be surveyed, and work commenced, the Government will not be less liberal in furnishing means for its construction than it will for the main road.

We regard the great movement as having commenced auspiciously for the construction of the great Overland Rail Road—for which we have hoped, and longed, and prayed—and which has finally become one of the great measures of the Union Administration.

Details of Eastern News.

Butler had ordered all the banks in his Department to make return to headquarters of all [illegible] due the banks in the rebellious States, [illegible] also of sums due the State of Louisiana; also that drafts thereon are not to be paid without a permit from headquarters. Another order had been issued prohibiting owners of vessels from taking away [illegible] persons under a penalty of imprisonment or the liability of the confiscation of their vessels.

Desperate gangs of outlaws are reported to be nightly committing depredations on the Opelousas railroad.

A large and enthusiastic Union meeting was held in New Orleans on the night of the 21st of June.

NEW YORK, July 10.—A special dispatch from Washington says: The forthcoming address of the Republican Senators and Congressmen to the people of the country will favor the most energetic action in the prosecution of the war, and the use of all the means in our power against rebellion and foreign intervention. The policy of employing the blacks in military operations is gaining favor.

NEW YORK, July 11.—A special dispatch to the World reports that there is little doubt that Gen. Halleck will be the new Secretary of War, for which position many regard him as the fittest man in the country.

The department yesterday determined on a general exchange of prisoners.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—In the House, the Committee of Conference on the Confiscation Bill reported certain modifications as follows: All slaves of persons engaged in the rebellion coming into our lines, and all found at places hereafter occupied by rebels shall be forever free. Slaves escaping are not to be delivered up until the rightful claimant makes oath of loyalty. Persons in the military and naval service are not to be allowed to decide on the validity of claims for [illegible] on penalty of dismissal from service. The President is authorized to employ as many persons of African descent for the suppression of the rebellion as he may deem best, and is authorized to make provision for the colonization of the blacks beyond the limits of the United States. He is authorized to extend pardon to rebels on such conditions as may be deemed expedient for the public welfare. The report was concurred in.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The Richmond Enquirer of the 7th inst. comments the new position which McClellan has assumed on the James river, and denounces the Confederate Generals for allowing him to take it, claiming that they had him surrounded and defeated.

CHICAGO, July 12.—The Nashville dispatch of the 10th, giving an account of the attack on four companies of the Ninth Pennsylvania cavalry, at Tompkinsville, Kentucky, the day before was greatly exaggerated. The Federal loss was but four killed, and a few taken prisoners. The rebel Colonel Hunt was badly wounded.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The following gentlemen have been appointed to draft an address to the country: Senators Howard, Wilson, Wilkinson, Howe and Morrill, and Representatives Bingham, Stevens, Sedgwick, Potter and Sargent.

The House to-day unanimously passed the Senate bill for the punishment of any member of Congress or Government officer who shall receive a consideration for influence in obtaining contracts from the Government.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—A late Richmond Examiner publishes an article denouncing the commanding General for the suppression of facts relative to the late battles, and says: "If all the expectations are to be realized, we believe our people can bear disappointment without waiting for facts to drop out through the slow and forced confessions of those in authority. If McClellan has effected a communication with the James river, why not boldly state the facts? What may be the strength of the remnant of the Federal army and whether that remnant yet involved by our lines has escaped our grasp and been reinforced, are questions which the Government plainly refuses to answer."

Of the straits to which the rebels are reduced, the Examiner says: "From the generally understood situation, it appears that the only severe alternative is an immediate assault upon the enemy, or our falling back to our lines." It also says: "It is sincerely to be hoped that the ability of our Generals and the courage of Southern armies will soon relieve this portion of our State from the presence of the Federal army. In them, under heaven, is our only hope."

PHILADELPHIA, July 10.—A correspondent of the Press, on the flagship Hartford, gives rumors by deserters from Vicksburg, that Breckinridge passed through that city in the latter part of June and crossed the Mississippi in a small boat on his way to Texas and probably Mexico.

ANOTHER OPPOSITION PAPER.—By prospectus received, we learn that Messrs. P. W. Haley and A. J. Stinson contemplate starting an opposition sheet at Albany, to be called the Albany Inquirer, and devoted to the cause of finding fault with everything the present Administration has done or may do toward suppressing rebellion and restoring the Union [illegible]. Messrs. Haley and Stinson may be very nice gentlemen, but we hope they will signally fail in this enterprise, should they attempt to defend treason or encourage directly or indirectly disloyal doctrine.

With regard to the misrepresentation [illegible] the [illegible] of Friday last in the matter of Mr. Thos. H. Smith, of Vancouver, we shall hereafter notice it, as also the communication of Mr. Smith himself.

Persons who get contracts of furnishing supplies to the Government through the Quartermaster, are required to take the oath of allegiance to the United States without any mental reservation.

Passengers by the flag of truce steamer Nebraska from New Orleans report that Baton Rouge was [illegible] by Gen Van Dorn and that he took 1,200 Federal prisoners.

PHILADELPHIA, July 14.—The Richmond Enquirer of the 9th says 10,000 Yankees arrived at Warrenton yesterday.

New York, July 1[illegible].—The Fredericksburg correspondent of the Herald says Major Slaughter returned from Richmond a few days since completely disgusted with the condition of the rebel capital.

Gen. McCall is in good health and situated as comfortably as possible under the circumstances. That the rebels at Richmond have free and uninterrupted communication with the prisoners within our lines, there can be no doubt. March on.

[The remainder of this dispatch will be continued in our next, in consequence of the line breaking between Weaverville and Shasta.]

Four Union candidates are elected sure, in Clarke county, W. T., and the chances are strongly in favor of a fifth, whose election depends partly on other counties.

THE DAILY OREGONIAN [illegible] Book St[illegible]

WATERING PLACE.—[illegible] Clatsop Plains is the only [illegible] pleasure and health [illegible] city, and we understand [illegible] many of our wealthy and fashion[illegible] ting Tillamook [illegible] during the present summer month [illegible] steamer J. Clark will make weekly trips between Portland and Astoria, commencing this morning, thus affording a favorable opportunity for all who may wish to spend a few weeks on the sea shore, drink salt water and feast on clams for the improvement of their health [illegible] tion and gratification.

"THOSE HORSES [illegible]—We understand that the Sierra Nevada is to be refitted and repaired after this trip, by having a new boiler and other improvements made on her machinery; also, recoppered and painted, and generally dressed up in superb style, when she will appear on the route again with the determination to take [illegible] from any other steamship on this line. This is her last trip until these repairs are made.

CRAZY.—C. A. B. Patterson, generally known as [illegible] Patterson, was brought to the city yesterday in a raving condition and [illegible] for safety. He had been stopping in the neighborhood of [illegible] Creek, Clackamas [illegible] for some time past, and recently entered a school house near that place frightening all but one of the scholars [illegible] lad, refused to run, whereupon Patterson attempted to maltreat the boy, but was [illegible] prevented by the timely [illegible] stout man, who together with the assistance of two others securely bound him and brought him to this place to be taken care of. From his boisterous demonstrations, he appears to be heavy in the shoulder, and no doubt would [illegible] considerable mischief should he get loose.

Col. Rector left here on [illegible] for the Indian Reservations at Umatilla and Warm Springs, and other portions of the Indian country. One object in making this tour is to see if it be possible, and if so to effect a treaty with the Snake Indians.

THEATRE.—By advertisement found in another column, it will be seen that the Willamette Theatre is to be again opened on Wednesday evening next, under the management of Messrs. Potter & Bell, with an entire new troupe of artistes, and it is believed that superior entertainments will be given.

EARLIER.—The time of departure for the Cascades of the Oregon Steam Navigation Company's steamers, has been changed to five o'clock in the morning, instead of six as heretofore.

FAST STEAMER.—The Wilson G. Hunt is decidedly the fastest steamer on the route from this city to the Cascades. She made the trip last Saturday in some four hours less time than any of the other steamers have done heretofore. The Wilson G. Hunt is a fine steamer, and under her present management is bound to become a great favorite.

NOTHING LATER.—The Sierra Nevada brought no later news from below, as she came by way of Victoria. We are indebted to her gentlemanly Purser for files of late San Francisco and Victoria papers.

TO ARRIVE.—The Pacific did not probably sail from San Francisco until this morning, therefore she may not be expected here before next Thursday evening or Friday morning.

The California and Oregon steamer Sierra Nevada arrived on Saturday evening at 9 [illegible] P. M. [illegible] her memoranda and passenger list.

MEMORANDA.—Left San Francisco July 12 [illegible] M., arrived at Esquimalt on the 17th at 10 A. [illegible] [illegible] A. M. July 19th at [illegible] A. M. [illegible] immediately and arrived at Portland [illegible]

PASSENGERS.—Mrs. [illegible] Savage and lady, F. W. [illegible] Mr. [illegible] Blain, [illegible] Stewart, W. P. Murphy [illegible] and nephew, Wm. Farmer, Mr. [illegible] Mr. Johnson [illegible]

NEW STEAMBOAT.—The Eugene City Republican says: Messrs. Shaw, McClure, Coffin and others have opened subscription books, and are soliciting [illegible] for the purpose of building a small steamer [illegible] between the Falls of the Willamette [illegible] Eugene City. It is proposed to form a company of eighty shares, consisting of fifty dollars each [illegible] call a meeting of the stockholders [illegible] rules and regulations and to determine the best manner of proceeding with the work.

An Every Day Tragedy

"Gentlemen," said Mrs. Trevor turning to the police officers [illegible] and in case it is found [illegible] course. Come [illegible]

She took [illegible] calmly out of the r[illegible] burst of sobs that [illegible] depths of the young girl [illegible]

"Sarah, I do not really think [illegible] bauble," said Mrs. Trevor [illegible] the stairs.

"Nonsense—was it [illegible] Are you willing to [illegible] than detect the thief."

"Well, Sarah [illegible] onward [illegible] have been mistaken [illegible] done a cruel and [illegible] this day."

"Good God, Sarah!" exclaimed Mr. Trevor one morning as he was glancing over the newspaper at the breakfast table, "it is incredible!"

"What is the matter?"

"Poor Ellen Hope has committed suicide—poisoned herself last night."

"Poisoned herself!"

"Yes—the paragraph goes on to state that 'she was driven to the deed by starvation and misery, never having [illegible] employment since she [illegible] in a certain disgraceful [illegible] two months ago.' Poor child [illegible] Sarah, I never shall [illegible] myself for the part I took in that affair."

"If I had supposed she was in such destitution, I would have sent her some relief," said Mrs. Trevor thoughtfully. "I am very sorry, though there can be no doubt that she stole the ring, although it couldn't be proved."

Mr. Trevor went to look at the wasted corpse of Ellen Hope as it lay stretched on the little white bed in the [illegible] room. The pale, pretty girl was always rather a favorite with the kindhearted childless [illegible] and there was a nameless pang at his heart as he stood there looking down on the marble forehead and waxen eyelids of the young suicide. And he went away—the attendants marvelled to find a spray of [illegible] white roses just blossoming into fragrance [illegible] in the lilly hands that were [illegible] meekly on the girlish breast.

A mild afternoon in April—the sky blue and flecked with soft islets of floating cloud, and Mrs. Trevor's flowers exhaling a perfect sea of sweetness [illegible] it was her maid with a message and a little parcel.

"If you please, ma'am, a gentleman just returned from China left this [illegible] Mr. Neville, he says."

Hubert Neville was Mrs. Trevor's favorite nephew—a wild, harum-scarum fellow full of fun and life, who had [illegible] for China on some official appointment the very day—how well she remembered the date—the suspicion first overclouded poor Ellen Hope's life!

She threw aside the [illegible] packet and eagerly broke the seal of the letter.

"My dearest aunt: [illegible] pray don't blame me any more than [illegible] what after all was a mere act of Neville carelessness, and I have been uneasy about it ever since. You remember the day that I came to bid you good bye, you showing me a diamond solitaire ring and my laughingly [illegible] it to one of much less value, which I may [illegible] wore? Think of my being thoughtless enough to wear both the rings away on my finger and never discovering my mistake until fifty miles of blue sea rolled between me and home! I know you must be very anxious, so I send the diamond to you by a very good friend of mine, who is on a 'homeward bound' craft which passes our ship this morning. Moral—Don't trust valuable jewels in the [illegible] paws of a careless young scapegrace again soon! Your affectionate nephew, HUBERT."

Mrs. Trevor threw down the letter and tore open the package with fingers that trembled so violently that she could hardly unfasten the securing seals. There it lay trembling in the light like a great drop of golden water—the diamond ring which had been the death warrant of poor Ellen Hope!

With a piercing scream, she fell back insensible on the sofa—but it was too late for the young victim, who had passed far beyond the reach of earthly restitution or amends, into the land where God is eternally just.

Up the Mississippi

INTERESTING SKETCH OF THE [illegible] OF OUR FLEET.

A private letter, written by an officer on board the sloop-of-war Iroquois, just received in New York, gives the following interesting sketch of the movements of our fleet on the Mississippi:

Our routine is this: We steam up the river days and come to anchor nights. Last night, as usual, we came to anchor just before sunset, and also as is our usual custom we sent a boat on shore to have friendly communications, as far as the people will allow us to be friendly, with the residents of this vicinity. Lowry, First Lieutenant, the Chief Engineer, the Doctor and myself were the officers who went in the boat. We pulled ashore abreast of one of the plantation houses. The house at first seemed deserted. As we approached the gateway, however, the proprietor made his appearance at the front door, and commenced walking up and down the piazza, wringing his hands [illegible] picture of terror. He met us [illegible] the gate of his dwelling [illegible] hands in the greatest [illegible] "You will not burn [illegible]" pointing to the house [illegible] sible distress [illegible] But for [illegible] you are such [illegible] ported—[illegible] to steal, burn, ravish [illegible] quently [illegible] My family have hid [illegible] servants also have [illegible] that you will steal [illegible] them [illegible]

We, of course, [illegible] and assured him that [illegible] was for the purpose of [illegible] up, and not to [illegible] enemies of those who [illegible] never of defenceless [illegible] women and children of the Southern States. It was a long time before he could [illegible] understand the nature of our visit, and still longer before the remainder of the family could be prevailed upon to show themselves. They were finally reassured, and the whole family made their appearance, apparently with fear and trembling, their eyes [illegible] red with weeping from the terror inspired by the Southern Vandal. It was an interesting family—all of them [illegible] to twenty persons [illegible] of them decidedly pretty. They were at first very shy, hardly a word could be got out of them. Soon they all grew more talkative, and before we left them [illegible] had all disappeared. They had become perfectly reassured, and I am one of the most agreeable half hours I have passed since I left New York than the last of our visit. Everything that was in the house or that grew on the plantation was at our service, and a boat was loaded with fowls and vegetables and [illegible] next morning before we got under way they had killed a bullock and brought it off with it for the use of the ship's company, and presented to each of the officers who were on board the night previous a splendid bouquet of flowers.

Our interview with this family shows how complete is the system of terror imposed by the rebel Government over the people in this part of our country, and that all that is wanting to disabuse their minds is sufficient intercourse with us to make them acquainted with our object in prosecuting the war, and no further would be further necessary to put an end to the war. This is no isolated case.

At daylight we got under way and steamed up the river. At sunset came to anchor just below the line that divides the States of Louisiana and Mississippi, the last of the very extensive plantation of a gentleman who [illegible] the name of Colonel ——. He owns [illegible] six plantations, and works on them [illegible] negroes. [illegible] went with one of the boats. Had an interview with Colonel ——, his overseers and negroes. This gentleman is [illegible] He has now five thousand bales of cotton stacked on his plantation, and received orders the very same night, before we passed him, to burn it or remove it five miles further into the interior. He is very indignant at the [illegible] rebel Government, and says with one thing he will be first. He [illegible] the rebel Government and all its works, and says there is a terrible reaction about to take place in these Southern States, and justice, though long delayed, will surely have its right. And he says truly, hundreds and thousands are like him. They are since the [illegible] in their building defiance to the rebel authority, and soon that power will be powerless even in its own dominions. Thus the work goes bravely on.
